P. ospecie for Future Business More Favorable Than a Week Age.

MANY FALL BUYERS NOW ARRIVING

Dry Goods Men Predict New Crop of Cotton Will Sell for Not Less Than Ten Cents and Think Cotton Goods Desirable Property.

Prospects for future business have greatly improved during the last few days. Reports received from reliable sources show that the warm weather of last week matured corn very rapidly and now the general opinion is that with anything like normal weather conditions from this time on lows and Nebraska will have a very fair corn crop. Merchants have not been greatly worried at any time during the summer, but at the same time a greater feeling of confidence has been noticed for the last few days and reflected in the size of the purchases placed with Omaha jobbers and manufacturers. Everyone seems to feel that if a fair corn crop can be harvested business in the territory tributary to Omaha will be the best ever experienced. That being the case, the tendency among retailers is to have liberal stocks on hand, so as to be prepared to handle all the business that is likely to come their way. There have been about the usual number of market changes during the week under review, but the same as has been the case for some time past values continue good and firm, with every indication of their remaining that way for some time to come. Collections are also in very satisfactory condition, as no complaints have been heard on that score.

Sugar May Sell Higher.

Wholesale grocers report their trade for last week as being very heavy for this season of the year. The demand was general for all seasonable lines and they look for a continued brisk demand for some time to come. Prices are in much the same position they were a week ago, although there have been a few important changes. Refined sugars are quoted the same, but raws have advanced a full sixteenth, with the tendency of prices still upward. Holders dd not appear to be at all anxious to sell, even at the advance. Refineries still report the demand very heavy and new business is being accepted subject to a delay in shipment of from one week to ten days. Indications are favorable for still higher prices in the near future and there is a possibility of a scarcity of sugars within the next two or three weeks, as retailers' stocks are not beavy and the heaviest consuming month of the year is at hand.

The bean market was a little irregular last week owing to the weather conditions. There was a slight advance early in the week owing to the continued rains, but since the weather has been better the market has reacted and prices are back to about where they were a week ago.

The market on oatmeal continues to advance and barrels and five-pound cases are quoted in cents higher than the closing price a week ago. The demand is very heavy for this season of the year and higher prices are confidently expected. Syrups also show considerable strength and there was an actual advance last week and the demand continues brisk.

There is no change to quote on laundry soaps or tobacco.

The dried fruit market was yery active last week and buying was particularly beavy on pagethes and anricots, the demand.

last week and buying was particularly heavy on peaches and apricots, the demand being of such a character as to indicate that operators not only believe that the market will be sustained, but advanced materially in the near future on those two The canned goods market was also full

Cotton Goods Good Property.

Dry goods men are now figuring that the price of the new crop of cotton will not go below foc. The reason given is that the crop is backward and is sure to be written light, while the demand must necessarily be heavy. It is reported that large operators have been going through the south offering flor and even lic for cotton and have failed to make a purchase. It is thought that if large operators are willing to pay that much for cotton at the present time they are not figuring on the new crop going much below those figures. Cotton growers are in much the same position to hold their crops during this iast few years and have paid off the mortgages on their farms. They are now in a position to hold their crop until they get the price they want, whereas in previous years they were forced to sell and take the prices offered.

It is estimated at the present time that it is in the last, the like per lib., 18c; No. 2 hard shell, per lib., 18c; No. 2 hard shell, per lib., 18c; ha price they want, whereas in previous years they were forced to sell and take the prices offered.

It is estimated at the present time that 62 per cent of the looms throughout the country are idle. That cannot help but make a great scarcity of manufactured goods a little later in the season. The scarcity of the manufactured goods alone will hold prices up for some time, even though cotton should sell lower than anticipated. If cotton holds up to 10c or better cotton goods are sure to sell higher than at the present time. Taking all these points into consideration local jobbers begoed property.

Fall trade with Omaka dry goods jobbers has now assumed very satisfactory proportions. There were a good many buyers in the city last week and they placed very liberal orders. They all had a favorable word to say regarding past business and the prospects for the future. As a general thing merchants are buying a better class of goods than ever before in spite of the fact that prices are considerably higher than they were a year ago. They seem to figure that people out through the country are going to have some money and that they will be willing to spend it.

Erisk Demand for Furniture.

Brisk Demand for Furniture. The month of August as a rule is not a very busy time with furniture men. During the last week or so local houses, however, have been enjoying a very nice trade on all staple lines. Parior sets and bed poom sets in particular have been moving very freely and the Omaha manufacturers of those lines have been obliged to run their factories to their fullest capacity to keep up with their orders. They figure that if business is sushing at this time of year they will experience an enormous demand a little later in the season.

Shipping Leather Goods. Leather goods men are shipping their fall orders as rapidly as possible and have made a good start on the stock they have on hand. Rubber goods are also being sent to the country with all possible speed. A good many buyers of leather goods were on the market last week and jobbers look for still more to arrive this week. Traveling men are meeting with good success on the road sad, according to their reports, the prospects for a good fall and winter demand for leather and rubber goods are very encouraging.

Cysters Aguin in Season.

The oyster season is once more at hand of on Thursday of this week wholesalers ill be ready to make their first shipments, a another column will be found the prices ( which they will sell and it will be seen In another column will be found the prices at which they will sell and it will be seen that opening prices are exactly the same as they were a year ago. It is reported, however, that the stock will be much better, than usual. The heavy rains in the east have given the oysters plenty of fresh water and as a result they are larger and fatter than, they have been for several years.

The large western celery is now on the market and is selling at 45c per dozen bunches, and Michigan stock is going at 29 gos. Other lines of vegetables have shown very little change during the week. They have sold higher on some days than on others, but as compared with a week ago staple lines are selling in just about the same notches.

California fruits are fully as high as they were a week ago. The enormous demand this year for California lines is keeping prices unusually high. The failure of the fruit crop sagt is largely responsible for the present high prices.

Butter, eggs and poultry have been in good demand all the week and the supply has been sufficient to keep prices just about eleady.

The canned goods market was also full of interest last week, California lines taking a prominent place. Advances have been shown along this line on two-and-a-haif-peuns goods and also on gallon goods, the advance running from 5 to 25 cents per dozen. The demand of late has been a record-breaker.

The price of salmon has also been going up because of information received showing a great shortage of red fish. The advances thus far amounts to 5610 cents, with prospects favorable for further advances in the future.

Owing to unfavorable crop reports future tomatoes advanced last week 2½c per dozen on three-pound goods and 15c per dozen on three-pound goods and 15c per dozen on gallons, with the feeling very firm at the advance.

Oats was chiefly affected by the liberal selling on the part of a prominent interest. It was estimated that over $50,000 bushels of December and May were sold out by the buil leaders, and with a rather limited demand the market developed considerable weakness. The weather continued favorable for threshing and movement. September closed $60\frac{1}{2}\text{c} lower at $34\frac{1}{2}\text{d}\text{3}\text{5}\text{c} lower at $34\frac{1}{2}\text{d}\text{3}\text{5}\text{c} lower at $2\text{c} cars.

Provisions ruled firm early in the day on a smaller run of hogs and better prices at the yards, and with a good demand from longs for October lard and ribs, together with covering by shorts. A firm undertone prevalled throughout the entire session, although profit taking resulted in a loss of most of the early gain. September pork closed unchanged at $12.87\frac{1}{2}$; September lard was up $4c$.

Early in the week owing to favorable prospects of a heavy run of western beef cattle corn fed steers suffered a sharp decline. By the middle of the week, however, the supply of grass beef was short and packets were again anxious for corn feds and prices began to improve. The loss has now been fully regained so that corn fed steers if at all desirable are fully steady with the close of last week. Short fed cattle have been selling at very uneven prices owing to the fact that they have been coming in competition with the has now been fully regained so that corps of the corps of SHEEP—There were no fresh receipts of sheep and lambs again today, so a test of the market has not been made since Thursday. The receipts for the week have not been heavy at this point, as there is a decrease of about 2,000 head as compared with last week and of about 14,000 head as compared with the same week of last year. One thing to be noticed, however, is the fact that a large propertion of the offerings have been fat enough for killers. Receipts of fat stuff at other points have also been liberal and as a result there has been more stuff on sale than packers needed for their immediate requirements and the tendency of prices has been downward.

The general market on fat sheep and lambs can best be described by caling it is good to be the state of the greatest decline. This break in prices is no worse than at other points, so the market here is still well in line.

The demand for feeders has been active all the week and desirable grades may be quoted about steady. The common stuff, however, in some cases has shown a slight reduction.

soothe the wounded susceptibilities of his subjects and remove misapprehensions regarding Cornelius Vanderbilt's visit to Dantzig and his reception by the military commandant there, Emperor William has caused a statement to be published in the Dantzig Zietung. In it the emperor explained that Mr. Vanderbilt was kind and hospitable to Prince Henry when the latter was in America, and that the emperor's civility, therefore, was a simple return of the compliment. Furthermore, it is noted that Cornellus Vanderbilt is not a mere idle millionaire, but is a hard working, serious minded, self-trained rallway expert and a highly-gifted mechanic, not purse proud nor relying on his millions for happiness, but one of the cleverest, most modest and most estimable of the Americans Prince Henry met.
